

More builders, bankers and breakfast

Contractors, developers and others attend Daily Journal of Commerce event

More than 100 members of the construction and development community attended the quarterly Builder Banker Breakfast Tuesday at the Portland Marriott Waterfront Hotel. Speakers talked about the easing of the recession and overcoming the challenges of securing loans. Autumn Rudisel, above, Umpqua Bank senior vice president and manager of the Northwest Investment Real Estate Group, presented "How to Get a Loan." After the program, Tim Duy, left, professor of economics and director of the Oregon Economic Forum at the University of Oregon, talked with Randy Young of Norris Beggs & Simpson, about Duy's presentation, "Leaving the Recession." — Dan Carter
